an indicator moving along the viewing panel, scrolling the first display until a first item of the first plurality of items appears within the viewing panel and is proximate to an indicator that provides an indication of the selection of the first item, moving the indicator along the viewing panel to the second display, scrolling the second display until a second item of the second plurality of items appears within the viewing panel and is associated with the indicator so that the indicator provides an indication of the selection of the second item.
